

ABSTRACT

A system and/or method that modifies and/or configures an application based at least upon a parameter of an operating environment. An interrogation component interrogates an operating environment receiving defining parameters. A modification component modifies an application based at least upon the defining parameters of the operating environment.